Yolanda Poullard was forever changed by the constant danger and battlefield horrors in Iraq. When she returned home to the States, survivor’s guilt and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) didn’t just haunt her, they consumed her life. “I couldn’t function. All I would do was sleep or sit in a chair.”

Then Yolanda learned about the Wounded Warrior Project® (WWP) Warrior Care Network® program and finally reached out for help. Warrior Care Network provides warriors like Yolanda with a year’s worth of care and a path to long-term wellness during a two- to three-week intensive outpatient program. While other types of counseling had made Yolanda feel better during sessions, she felt lost and unable to cope when she was at home. She feels Warrior Care Network was the difference she needed to finally make real, life-changing progress. “They give you a bag of tools and skills that you can take and apply at home and in your new life,” she says.

Yolanda credits that one phone call with helping her get her life back. Today, she gives back by helping underprivileged kids and adults suffering with PTSD and substance abuse problems. “We’re all in this together,” Yolanda says. “Let’s help one another through it. We can make it out of this dark tunnel together.”

WWP began in 2003 as a small, grassroots effort providing simple care and comfort items to the hospital bedsides of the first wounded service members returning home from the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan. As their post-service needs evolved, so have our programs and services, which include mental health, career counseling, and long-term rehabilitative care – improving the lives of millions of warriors and their families.

This effort requires the passion and commitment of friends, supporters, and like-minded organizations who enable us to fulfill our mission and guarantee, as much as possible, that when those who serve come home, they're afforded every opportunity to be as successful as a civilian as they were in the military.

Government Affairs

WOUNDED WARRIOR JASON EHRHART WITH HIS FAMILY

As a voice for our nation's wounded warriors in Washington, DC, we fight to address the issues that matter most to them. Using warriors' feedback and insights, the WWP Government Affairs team advocates for veteran policies and initiatives that make a real difference, improving the lives of millions of warriors and their families.

2019 HIGHLIGHTS

★ Led the effort to introduce the Ryan Kules and Paul Benne Specially Adaptive Housing Improvement Act of 2019, which will increase the amount of money available to severely injured veterans to renovate their homes to accommodate their needs.

★ Convened the Toxic Exposures in the American Military (TEAM) coalition to collect data, promote research, and draft legislation to assist veterans made ill by toxic exposures due to their military service.

★ Drafted legislation to expand commissary, military exchange, and morale, welfare, and recreation (MWR) privileges to 4.1 million people — the largest expansion of commissary benefits in 60 years.

Community Partnerships

WWP believes that no one organization can meet all the needs of wounded, injured, or ill veterans alone. By collaborating with other military and veteran support organizations, we amplify the effects of our efforts. Our investments and unfunded partnerships in the military and veteran community fill gaps in our programs and reinforce our existing efforts.

2019 HIGHLIGHTS

★ Partnered with 26 organizations, ensuring warriors have access to resources that meet their evolving needs.

★ Strategically expanded investments to focus on curbing homelessness and increasing opportunities for women veterans.

Warriors never pay a penny for our programs — they paid their dues on the battlefield. When they're ready to start their next missions, we stand ready to serve.
